Slow Food®

celebrate eating locally

Slow Food Perth invites you to join us at Lake Jualbup, Shenton Park, to celebrate Terra Madre Day on Saturday 11 December 2010 at 1:00pm. We're celebrating eating locally, and enjoying that food together. And we'll be part of more than one thousand events being held throughout the world to foster local community awareness of local food. Perhaps go to your local farmers' market that morning and buy some delicious, local, fresh produce, meat or cheese. Or make a salad from your kitchen garden. Chill some Western Australian wine, and bring all of it to share at our Terra Madre Day picnic. You'll also need to bring all that you'll need: a chair, table, umbrella, plate, knife, fork. We'll have trestles for the food, and ice and glasses. Just look for the Terra Madre Day flags and you'll find us!

Directions Lake Jualbup is bordered by Herbert and Excelsior streets, and Evans Street and Lake Avenue, Shenton Park, off Nicholson or Onslow roads. RSVP? Not essential, but if you email info@slowfoodperth.org.au or telephone Pauline Tresise on 08 9381 4519 to let us know that you're participating, we'll then make sure we have enough glasses so that we all can raise one to the Terra Madre network of farmers, chefs and cooks!

Slow Food®Perth

From convivial small-table events and taste workshops to international forums, Slow Food builds community networks between grower and eater, agriculture and market, village and the world, and at its heart celebrates and champions 'small, slow food' in ways that enhance knowledge, respect and passion. slowfoodperth.org.au
